and all I have to say is that it was obviously very cold in the studio that day, poor girl.

Miss October is Misty again. The story behind this shot is that Misty called Dillon because someone she knew had suggested she should be a Blue Press cover model. She came in, did a photo shoot, but Mike Dillon didn't pick her. Shortly later, just after Halloween, Misty called Mark and said, "I had a great Halloween costume this year, kind of a gangster-moll outfit, and I'd really like to show it to you." So she came in, Mark grabbed Mike Dillon's 1928 Navy overstamp Thompson and a 50-round drum from the gun locker, the shot turned out great, Mike Dillon loved it, and now you get to enjoy it.

Our last two shots are both Cathy. Hey, she's the most popular Blue Press cover model ever, so why not? Her "Miss November" shot is, you guessed it, posing with the Dillon Aero minigun. When this shot ran as the September '07 Blue

Press cover, a lot of people called in and said they were heartbroken by the size of the rock on her finger, though I think mostly it was the existence of the rock on her finger that did it. Oh well, so much for that dream, guys.

We end (strangely enough) with Miss December. Dare to be different. Cathy is 5'2" tall, she's so tiny she makes that CZ-75 look like a hand cannon. Just because I know you're all curious, a few more specs: Cathy weighs a whopping 100 pounds, and her measurements are 34-22-34. Her web site is www.cathyrankin.com and contains many, many more Cathy shots. At Dillon Precision we aim to please; no extra charge. A lot of her commercial shots on the website were actually taken at Dillon - stuff guys will like, trust me. Cathy's got the whole "girl next door with pony-tails" thing going in this shot. But like I always say, for this to actually be your girl next door, you'd have to be really lucky in your address!
