Dillon Aero's 2008 Calendar Continued from Page 10

shots the people doing Dillon's website picked for the home page.

Miss October is Cathy again. This is a hell of a shot. She's wearing a really nice, high-class blue dress. Mark's comments of Cathy, "She's just a classy lady all the way 'round. And lots and lots of fun to work with. She winds up doing an awful lot of laughing and giggling when we're working together. That's what makes Cathy memorable. Yeah, she's this absolutely gorgeous woman, but in person she's also this friendly, fun, nice person. 'Modeling' is not an easy job - she has to get into these goofy positions where she's perched on the edge of a helicopter or whatnot, but she always makes it fun."

Miss November is Mallory, also from Dillon's first photo shoot with her, fondling the very lucky M-134 mini-gun. Wow. Beautiful woman. Mark Pixler comments, "There's one flaw in this shot. Mallory had those little elastic hair ties in her hair;

we wanted her to take them off, so she put them around her left arm. In this shot we forgot to have her take them off."

Me: "I didn't even notice. There are other things in this shot to look at. But yeah, there they are."

Mark: "Most people don't."

Miss December is Cathy, though it doesn't even look like her. It's a very different look. This shot is actually about two years old; it was originally going to be for an ad in Stars and Stripes. Originally Mike Dillon didn't like the way the shot turned out, so they had Cathy come in and do a completely different photo shoot for that particular ad. So Mike Smith's got this image of Cathy they've never used, still on his hard drive. While working on this year's calendar, Mike "re-discovered" it and put the shot in with the other images for the Dillon Aero calendar; Mike Dillon approved it, and now you get to enjoy it, too.
